Positive Discipline is a program that teaches important social and life skills in a manner that is respectful to both the adults and the young people in the situation - raising young people to be responsible, respectful and resourceful members of their community. It is based on the theory that children that have a sense of connection to their community (home, school) and those whose input is regarded as meaningful are less likely to engage in "mis" behavior. To be successful members of the community, children need to be taught the necessary social and life skills. Positive Discipline adds numerous tools to adults' toolboxes enabling them to interact with children in a more positive and constructive manner. Many parents report that the conflict in their home goes down by at least 50% when they begin to implement Positive Discipline principles. By investing your time and energy in this seven-week course, you may be changing the dynamics of your home and future generations forever! ★ IdahoStars credit available. 16 credit hours. ★
